- ELEVATE YOUR COMMUNICATION -

WORKSHOP

Quite often, the difference between success and failure in business can be pinpointed to the compounded impact of your conversations. Words matter and understanding how you can use language to control a conversation is certain to provide you a fair advantage in your challenging marketplace.

Whether you are looking to lead your team, are in a sales conversation with a client, or negotiating with a supplier – knowing the right things to say, in the right way and at the right time is certain to have instant positive outcome on your results.

Exactly What to Say® Certified Guide, Tanis Roeder, provides an energetic and thought-provoking session that will have you captivated from the very start as you discover the power that language has over the subconscious brain. You will gain immediate actionable outcomes, where you can expect to be keen to work on your new word choices as early as the next conversation you have.

This session is perfect for sales teams looking to improve their conversations, leaders looking to have more impact, and team members with goals of having more influence in their daily conversations.
